POTATOES ARE DAMAGED

With This Exception the Truckers Have
No Cause for Complaint—Green
Crops Were Helped by the Wet
Weather—Quality Improved

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., March 31.—The recent cold snap did not do any material damage to the crops in this section, with the exception of the potato crop, and today's shipments to the northern markets were quite heavy. Many hundred barrels came to the city over the Norfolk and Atlantic Terminal Company, and were shipped north. The recent heavy rains, while they had a tendency to rot the crops, aided in materially maturing the green stuff so that some of the shipments are away ahead of last season. The quality of the produce this season is, in many instances, better than last season.

The continued wet weather has caused most of the early planted potato crop to rot, so say the farmers in this vicinity. Mr. Thomas Butt, near Berkley, is one of the truckers who have reported to the extent that he will plow it up and replant. Unless the season becomes very favorable this will cause a late crop. What is true in the case of Mr. Butt is true with numerous others in this vicinity. The salesmen are not injured so far as can be learned.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., March 31.—Virginia defeated Pennsylvania here this afternoon, 1 to 0, in an exciting ten-inning contest, the like of which has not been seen at the University in years. It was a pitchers' battle from beginning to end, in which Prichard, the Virginia twirler, more than held his own against the Quaker southpaw, Devlin, who is rated as the second best college pitcher in this country. The light-haired West Virginian was steady throughout, allowing but four hits, only one of them going out of the diamond. He struck out 12 of the Quaker batters and fielded his position admirably.

The men behind him also put up a magnificent fielding game, the only error being made by Stearns, who let a hot one get past him. The infield worked like clockwork, Mason, Stucky and Rosser meeting the leather half way and throwing out a runner at a sensational rate. The outfield, which almost grazed the grandstand, in the outfield Nalle brought the rooters to their feet by three difficult catches of long lilies. In the fifth inning Rosser, who had a splendid chance to score, but a quick double, Rosser to Stearns, spoiled it. Virginia frequently got runners on the sacks, but the fine pitching of Devlin prevented them from scoring.

In the ninth, with two out and two strikes on Rosser, Captain Pollard made a desperate effort to score from third, but was caught at the plate. In the tenth inning, Prichard, who threw wild on a pop fly and Cooke bunted. Devlin gathered up the ball, but failed to throw it, for fear the runner on third would score. Prichard, who hit it, was caught at the plate. Prichard, who hit it, was caught at the plate.

The bunting game having rattled him somewhat, Devlin became so untidy that he threw four balls in succession, forcing in Rosser, which the twirler, who was so charged at being beaten by Prichard, and that it is probable that he will twirl again tomorrow. Cracker, who held Pennsylvania down last year, will be in the box for Virginia.
